Guidelines:

Applications are invited from potential students for a funding award contributing towards a collaborative PhD or D.Prof (full-time or part-time study; by thesis or by publications) in the area of social and/or organisational psychology. The topic of the PhD/DProf must have the demonstrable potential to make a positive difference to families, organisations or communities and to people's lives.

- The trust specifically funds Social & Organisational Psychology
- The trust supports innovative research and applied psychology;
- The trust supports research in hitherto neglected areas that will benefit the public or families, communities, organisations and wider societies where other forms of funding are not available;
